

KEY TO THE COMPOUND

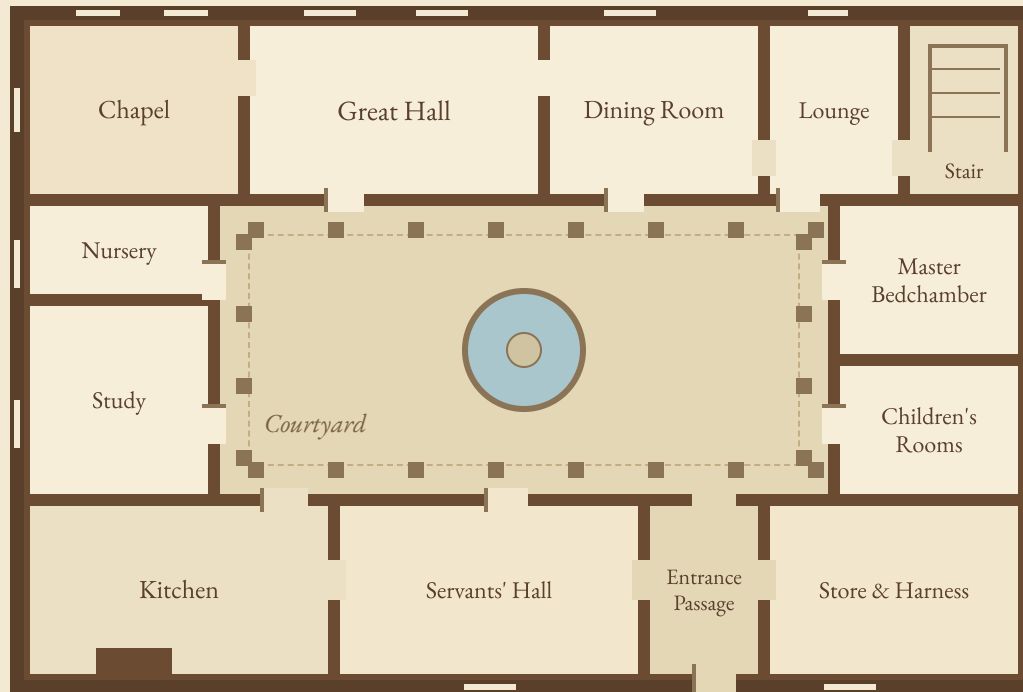

HACIENDA DE LOS ROBLES

You grew up at Hacienda de los Robles, a modest family estate in northwest Castille, near the river city of Altamira. It's good land — not the biggest or richest around, but comfortable, busy, full of horses and noise and too many people underfoot. You haven't been back in years.

Great-Uncle Alejandro retired military; commands a room by entering it

I THE GREAT HOUSE — GROUND FLOOR ground floor · 50 × 33 m

The plan is a single block pierced by one courtyard. Nothing in the family wings opens to the outside at ground level except through the entrance passage on the south front, wide enough to take a carriage.

Arcade piers around the courtyard are shown as solid squares; the fountain stands on the cross axis, fed from the tank behind the kitchen.

Kitchen and servants' hall share the whole south range, each with its own door onto the courtyard. The stair in the north-east corner serves both the upper floor and the cellar.

ENTRANCE PASSAGE IS THE ONLY WAY IN · KITCHEN
HEARTH MARKED SOLID

I · 2 THE GREAT HOUSE — UPPER FLOOR open gallery on all four sides · seven guest quarters

The upper floor now runs the whole way round. A gallery on all four sides carries the traffic; it has no outer wall to the court, only a run of piers over the arcade below, so every room is reached from the open air.

Seven guest quarters fill the west, south and east ranges, numbered round from the west wall. The upper sitting room takes the east range beside the stair and stands open to the gallery on its west side. The loggia sits in the south range between guest quarters III and IV, and is the only way into guest quarters III.

The oratory keeps its place over the chapel; the family's rooms, library and sewing room stay in the north range beside the stair.

SOLID SQUARES = GALLERY PIERS · DASHED = OPEN TO THE COURT BELOW

The cellar is cut only under the north range, where the ground falls away. One passage runs its length; the stair from the ground floor continues down into it, and there is no other way in.

Wine lies in the two long bays on the cool north side. Spirits are kept separate, away from the food store. The strongroom sits at the foot of the stair behind a double thickness of wall — the only room in the house with no window at any level.

DASHED OUTLINE = SOLID GROUND, NO CELLAR ·
HEAVY WALL = STRONGROOM

THE OUTBUILDINGS II – VIII · same scale as the great house

II GREAT BARN 31 × 7 m

III STABLES stables · 21 × 9 m

SIX STALLS OFF A SINGLE AISLE

VIII EAST RANGE
workers' range · 9 × 26 m

IV COWHANDS' QUARTERS 22 × 10 m

V WINERY 18 × 8 m

VI GUEST HOUSE 13 × 9 m

VII SMITHY 14 × 8 m

The Outbuildings

IX – XIV · service, gate & road

IX
West Range
storehouse · 9 × 26 m

X STEWARD'S HOUSE 6 × 6 m

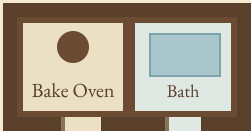

LOFT ABOVE, REACHED BY LADDER

XI DAIRY dairy · 7 × 7 m

XIII BAKE HOUSE & BATH 11 × 5 m

XII GATE LODGES 5 × 4.5 m each

FLANKING THE 9 M CARRIAGE GATE

XIV ROADSIDE GRANARY 8 × 8 m

